MARSH FARM FUTURES TO HOLD “COMMUNITY CONVERSATIONS” LOCAL ISSUES - LOCAL SOLUTIONS - community businesses could be the answer

Marsh Farm Futures (MFF) is kick-starting the Power to Change - Empowering Places Programme, with Community Conversations with local residents, community organisations/groups and partners.

The key objectives include:

- Introducing community businesses and demonstrating their success in other places.
- Enabling local residents to identify the key issues (e.g. education, unemployment, crime and business initiatives) affecting the local community, prioritising them and working with people to establish community businesses.
- Inspiring residents, partners and stakeholders to make the most of this opportunity to improve lives using community business as a driver for social change.

Programme Manager, Ishaq Kazi, said “We are absolutely delighted to host the first Community Conversations with residents and others who have an interest in this area. In my view, this programme is all about local people identifying local issues and finding local solutions using community business principles. I am really looking forward to welcoming everyone and their ideas”.

Community Conversation will be held during late summer at Futures House

The purpose of this is:

- To develop an understanding of economic, environmental, social needs/issues in the area and how community businesses can help these.
- To ensure local residents, community groups, partners and other stakeholders are involved and collectively drive the Empowering Places Programme (EPP) through developing community businesses.

During the first Community Conversations, residents will meet key members of MFF Team leading on the programme, colleagues from Power to Change and other national organisations committed to providing support and resources to the area. The evening programme will include laughter, discussion, identifying key issues and agreeing the next steps.

Process

An interaction between residents, service providers, and users is required and necessary resources need to be identified. MFF (with support from other National organisations including New Economics Foundation (NEF), UK COOPs), will facilitate discussion in small groups. This will help ascertain real information, data and the size of problems and possible solutions. Light refreshments will be provided. We would love to see as many people as possible but if you are unable to participate in this conversation, you are welcome to visit us, talk to us or email your ideas to ishaq@marshfarmfutures.co.uk.

Marsh Farm Futures hosts Afternoon Tea

Marsh Farm Futures opened its doors to the community on Friday 4th May 2018 to celebrate the annual Community Business Weekend.

Organisers, Power to Change, started the Community Business Weekend three years ago to offer a unique opportunity for local people to visit and see how they can get involved in community businesses.

All team members at Marsh Farm Futures participated in the event that had a Community Business Tea Party theme, with free teas, coffees, cakes, scones and samosas on offer. Members of the local community listened to Ishaq Kazi, Programme Manager, delivering the Empowering Places Programme at Marsh Farm Futures, talk about the benefits of community business, how community businesses can be set up and the sort of help and support that would be offered by Marsh Farm Futures to a new community business.

Ishaq Kazi, Programme Manager, at Marsh Farm Futures said: "There are great opportunities here for local people to get involved and drive the initiative forward. We are aiming to address local issues with local solutions."

A view echoed by Annette White, Director/Trustee of Marsh Farm Futures and responsible for this project commented "I am delighted that Marsh Farm Futures has been selected as a catalyst by Power to Change. We are looking forward to working with local communities, residents, partners and various other stakeholders to address local needs by promoting community business platform."

Mohammed Rafi, Chief Executive at Marsh Farm Futures said: "It really is an exciting prospect for Marsh Farm as an area and I hope that the people who attended the event pass on the word that we are here to help them achieve and set up a range of community businesses that will boost local economy, offer employment opportunities and help Marsh Farm thrive."

New Starter

We would like to welcome Anya Hobbs our new Community Engagement Officer who studied at the University of Bedfordshire graduating in 2015 before travelling to Uganda to do charity work. Whilst travelling she realised working with the community was what she really wanted to do. Shortly after she began working for Luton Foodbank and then Bushmead Community Hub before coming to Marsh Farm Futures. Her role will require working closely with the Community Voice project on bringing the community of Marsh Farm together to encourage a positive change in the area.

Police & Public Meeting

A public meeting was recently organised by Bedfordshire police to discuss the current rise in knife crime in Luton. The meeting was attended by over 150 members of the public and highlighted issues concerning knife crime and what the public is expecting from the police.

Assistant Chief Constable, Jackie Sebire said: "We are one piece of the puzzle in terms of driving down knife crime, and we can't do it alone. Therefore it was really important for us to meet with people from the communities we serve to have a frank and honest discussion about knife crime, which has risen nationally in recent years. I'm pleased we were able to speak to people about the work we're doing to tackle knife crime, and how important it is for us to do this.

"Even more importantly though, we were able to hear from the public about their thoughts on knife crime, and how we can continue to tackle this. The meeting was incredibly valuable, and we will continue to engage with our communities moving forward."

Cupcake day

On Thursday 14th June Futures Community Voices held a cupcake day to raise money for the Alzheimer's Society. It was a successful and yummy morning! We are delighted to say we raised over £60 from our cakes and cake related games, which will go towards helping the Alzheimer's Society find a cure for this illness. Futures Community Voice would like to say a huge thank you to everyone who came along and also to those who donated cakes.
